The latest release in CareerPro Global's 21st Century Career series, this book is founded on decades of experience from the authors of the Master Military Resume Writer and Master Federal Career Coach certifications. Readers will learn how to write military-to-federal, military-to-defense contractor, and military-to-corporate resumes that are proven to earn job interviews. There is also a Veteran's Toolbox that contains tons of useful information and resources, including resume samples and easy-to-use templates. Armed with all of this information, the twenty-first-century veteran will be able to transition fast, strategically, and with confidence.

About the Author Barbara A. Adams is the president and CEO of CareerPro Global, Inc. Over the past several decades, she has assisted thousands of veterans in making career transitions, and remained on the cutting edge of new trends and hiring practices. As a result, she has built the premier military resume writing team in the industry, and is the co-author of both the Master Military Resume Writer and Master Federal Career Coach certifications. Lee Kelley is an Iraq war vet, former US Army captain, and award-winning author. He is also CareerPro's director of veterans transitions and has personally helped hundreds of veterans (from E-1 to O-8) transition into the private sector, the federal government, or the defense contracting industry. He is also a Master Military Resume Writer and Master Federal Career Coach.
