Michle Magnin, Veronique Flambard Weisbart : Scen@rios: Pedagogies du virtuel (World Languages) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Scen@rios: Pedagogies du virtuel (World Languages):

Master the French language with SCNARIOS! This all-in-one grammar, reading, writing, and multimedia program helps you improve your vocabulary, writing style, and cultural understanding of the French language. The book-specific website makes studying easy by providing integrated cultural activities, biographical information, links, directions for activities, and composition evaluation forms that can be downloaded and printed.

"what is appealing about this approach is that it forces students to interact in a meaningful way, without sacrificing close reading and the development of advanced writing skills." "There are no superfluous exercises, no excess of any kind or in any direction: it is an ultra-classic product with the perfect dosage and mixture of originality and rigor that any ultra-classic material implies." "The overall flow of the class is extremely well thought-out, leading from simple descriptive tasks to much more complex world-building activities that will not only push the students to use ever-richer French but that will ultimately result in enormous pride of creation and ownership of the collaboratively-created world." About the Author Michle Magnin is currently a full professor of French at the University of San Diego and coordinator of the French program. She received her PhD from the University of California, San Diego in 1986. She started lecturing and leading workshops on "teaching languages with technology" in 1991 with Minitel, and 1995 with Internet, mostly in the western states from Alaska to Hawaii, but also in Chicago, Indiana, Tokyo, Beijing, and more recently Brussels, Grenoble, and Quebec. Previously, she was Director of the Faculty and Curriculum Diversity Program at USD (1998-2001), President of San Diego chapters of AATF and Alliance Francaise.
