From Jean V Hacker Charles R Hacker : Six Space Exploration Cards (Dover Postcards) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Six Space Exploration Cards (Dover Postcards):

Though I didn't see anyone else mention that the ink caused the photo side of the postcards to stick to each other so that you have to peel them apart which leaves some damage on the photos. I don't remember the price exactly. $1.50 or so? So obviously don't expect something that's very high quality, but if you're a lover of the cosmos, it's a fun little thing to have around. The photos are really cool and there are quite a few I had never seen before, and even with the slight damage to the photos, I will be sending these to my out of state friends and I'm sure they'll dig them too. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Postcards! By Natalie I collect postcards and since my nearly 4 year old niece enjoys them too, I've started mailing her a few a month. She's obsessed with space and being an astronaut so I thought these would be perfect. The photos are gorgeous and very vintage. The cards are fairly sturdy as well (though they may not do long distances very well). The niece and I are both fans! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Good Space Cards By Lulia Lapkey Those six cards are the same quality as all other Dover cards I bought. They are a bit smaller than usual postcards but still thick enough to be sent internationally. I used them for postcrossing and swaps. If you like to swap cards on postcrossing forums, those postcards may be very helpful for you because people, who are looking for space cards, love them very much. And there are not too many cards on with that theme.

Spectacular views, specially selected from NASA's own archives, recapture the excitement and adventure of great moments from America's exploration of space. Historic images include the launch of Apollo 11, astronauts walking on the moon, and views of the earth from space.
