Vanessa J. Weaver, Jan C. Hill : Smart Women,Smart Moves before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Smart Women,Smart Moves:

Many women feel strongly committed to the company they work for but many don't get recognised or rewarded for their work. So what's a smart woman to do? This book presents a provocative model that takes the five types of relationship a woman has in her personal life and applies them to her work life. Understanding whether she is just "dating", or is a "girlfriend", "mistress", "fiancee" or "spouse" to her company will help her assess how much her company is committed to her. Weaver and Hill offer readers advice on how to: identify which stage of the work relationship they are in; view this relationship from their company's perspective; explore their personal values, beliefs and principles; decide whether to stay where they are - or move on. The book also includes women's real life success stories, self-assessment tools and relationship-building exercises.
