locationBy PitufliIf you want to find out where documents are archived in Cuba, this is an excellent source. It describes available sites with location, addresses and types of documents they have. For instance, you need a death certificate of a friend or relative who was married and died in Manzanillo, this books tells you where those documents are archived so that you can either go or send someone to get a copy from the original. Hundreds of locations listed. Good source!

The Archives of Cuba/Los archivos de Cuba is the first comprehensive guide to the archival holdings and manuscript collections located throughout the fourteen provinces of Cuba, and each is identified with its local address. The collections hold a vast assortment of research materials from the sixteenth through the twentieth centuries. Records encompass family papers, government documents, parish collections, notary records, corporate papers, archives of private associations, personal collections, and much more. Sites listed include the Archivo Nacional, the Biblioteca Nacional Jos Mart, provincial archives, municipal archives and museums, parish archives, cemetery archives, and many others. The volume also provides a general descriptive inventory of each archival holding and manuscript collection. It is an indispensable reference tool for anyone conducting research on Cuban history or culture.

[Perez and Scott] have contributed greatly toward revealing the wonderful documentary resources in various Cuban archives. . . . Strongly recommended for researchers and librarians.--Colonial Latin American Historical
