From Royal Society of Chemistry : The Merck Index: An Encyclopedia of Chemicals, Drugs, and Biologicals before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Merck Index: An Encyclopedia of Chemicals, Drugs, and Biologicals:

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Minor update.By CustomerThe latest issue of this essential chemist's companion, but with little in the way of updates and newer compounds. The publisher needs to assemble a group of chemists to make major revisions soon, or this will become a historical reference rather than a current reference.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A jewelBy Enrique BozzoA jewel, especially if you need the patent numbers of the compounds.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Great referenceBy Doug B.We use this book for lab work with essential oils, it's a great reference and also gives you access to the online reference materials.

The Merck Index is the definitive reference work for scientists and professionals looking for authoritative information on chemicals, drugs and biologicals. It has been the leading source of information on chemical compounds for generations of scientists and professionals, selling over one million copies since its publication in 1889. The Merck Index contains over 10,000 monographs with information relating to compounds of significance in research, commerce and environmental impact. The 15th edition, available from Royal Society of Chemistry publishing for the first time, is fully revised and updated and contains over 500 new monographs. Over 35% of the existing entries have been updated since the last edition, molecular weights have been recalculated with the latest IUPAC standards and there are revised periodic table and atomic weight tables. The Merck Index is an essential reference for all scholarly and professional chemists, biochemists, pharmacists and toxicologists and of interest to students, teachers, academic libraries, academic researchers, information professionals, solicitors, journalists and government agencies.*The name THE MERCK INDEX is owned by Merck Sharp Dohme Corp., a subsidiary of Merck Co., Inc., Whitehouse Station, N.J., U.S.A., and is licensed to The Royal Society of Chemistry for use in the U.S.A. and Canada.
