Robert Schmidt : The National Jobline Directory: Over 2,000 Companies, Government Agencies, and Other Organizations That Post Job Openings by Phone (National Job Hotline Directory: The Job Finder's Hotlist) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The National Jobline Directory: Over 2,000 Companies, Government Agencies, and Other Organizations That Post Job Openings by Phone (National Job Hotline Directory: The Job Finder's Hotlist):

From Library Journal A writer on computer- and business-related topics who has an M.A. in library science from the University of Chicago as well as an MBA, Schmidt has compiled for the general job seeker a unique and affordable directory of over 2000 employment hotlines offering prerecorded summaries of up-to-date available job openings. The Directory is arranged alphabetically in three sections by company, state, and industry. Entries in the primary listing (by company) include company name, address, description, telephone number, and jobline, while those in the two secondary listings furnish company name, city, state, zip code, and jobline. Also provided is a useful introductory essay on how best to utilize this information. Wide-ranging but still incomplete, this work represents an earnest effort to tap these often-overlooked resources, thus filling a void in the literature.
