through its synopsis for each book.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. A superb and easy-to-use reference especially recommended for librariansBy Midwest Book ReviewNow in an updated edition for 2006, The Newberry And Caldecott Awards by the Association For Library Service To Children is a straightforward catalog of children's books that received the Newberry award (2006-1922) and the Caldecott Award (2006-1938). Each entry lists the title, author, and illustrator of the book, along with a brief summary of the book's and art style, and a supplementary list of other honors the book earned. The 2006 edition also features a brand new essay by children's literacy consultant Sue McCleaf Nespeca, "Sharing Picture Books with Children to Promote Art Appreciation", which reviews the elements of great art and reveals how modern children's book artists incorporate such into their work. A superb and easy-to-use reference especially recommended for librarians.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A must for anyone who wants a complete and comprehensive collection for their children's libraryBy Midwest Book ReviewThese books are the best of the best; it's always a good idea to have them on hand for your library. "The Newberry and Caldecott Awards: 2010 Edition" is a guide to award winners of these prestigious awards so that one can find these books for their library and make them available to the public. "...Offers more than simply a listing of award-winning titles; librarians may have heard of the awards, but [this book] offers improved understanding as the criteria and philosophy behind them are explained in a most readable style." - OranaAbout the AuthorFor more than eight decades, librarians from the Association for Library Service to Children (ALSC) have intensely scrutinized the children's books published each year, selecting the winning and honor books for the Newberry and Caldecott Awards. In addition, the ALSC division of the ALA is committed to creating a nation of readers, starting with the youngest. ALSC supports all those providing library services to children, including youth librarians, teachers, families, literature experts, publishers, and child advocates.
